29. Each participant agrees to indemnify and hold harmless ITU, its officials and its agents from and against any and all claims and expenses arising out of or related in any way to his/her Event attendance and participation to the Event, any violation of these terms and conditions, any violation of applicable laws and regulations or any violations of any third party rights (including proprietary and privacy rights).

COLLECTION AND SHARING OF PARTICIPANT DATA

30. Each participant hereby provides his/her consent for the processing and storage by ITU of all contact information submitted to ITU by the participant or by his/her representative in the course of registration (hereinafter, the "Participant Data"), for the purpose of managing the participant's registration request and for enabling and facilitating the participant's attendance in the Event (this includes, but it is not limited to the verification of the participant's identity on-site and the issuing of access passes and badges). Each participant acknowledges that, to the extent that it is absolutely necessary, ITU may pass such Participant Data to third-parties who assist ITU in the organization and management of the Event, or provide Event-related services on behalf of ITU.
31. Furthermore, ITU may also use the Participant Data to provide participants with additional information in relation to upcoming ITU Telecom or other ITU events which ITU reasonably believes could be of interest to a participant or his/her organization, and to carry out surveys in relation to ITU Telecom events. Each participant may choose not to receive Telecom events related information by unsubscribing from ITU Telecom newsletters, by sending an email to privacy.telecom@itu.int, preferably at the time of his/her submission of registration request to ITU.
32. Each participant further agrees that, in order to facilitate the communication of information which, in ITU's reasonable judgement, may be of interest to Event participants and/or their organizations and for generally improving their experience regarding this Event and future ITU Telecom events, ITU may share with a sponsor of an Event session/activity certain Participant Data (namely, the name, job title, country and entity name of participants attending the specific Event session/activity) unless the participant chooses to opt out of this feature. The option to opt out is provided at registration for all participants registering online with a code. Participants registered by ITU Telecom, Media participants and participants registering online through the Single Pass option may email privacy.telecom@itu.int to request to opt out of this feature. The Sponsor will only contact such participants for the purpose of providing supplementary information regarding the sponsorship, the Event session/activity, and/or for enhancing their participation at the Event (e.g. to address questions and requests expressed during or after the Event session/activity or to receive their feedback). Each participant may choose at any time not to have his/her Participant Data communicated by ITU to a sponsor of an Event session/activity, by sending an email to privacy.telecom@itu.int.
33. In addition, each participant agrees to be listed in the Event mobile application ("App") unless the participant chooses to opt out of this listing. The option to opt out is provided at registration for all participants registering online with a code. Participants registered by ITU Telecom, Media participants and participants registering through the Single Pass and Registration option online may email privacy.telecom@itu.int to request to opt out of the App listing. The App default settings enable Event participants to contact each other directly by email to facilitate networking. If a participant does not wish to receive emails from other participants, he/she can disable the private messaging function in the App under “Profile Settings”. A participant may ask to be removed from the App at any time by sending an email to privacy.telecom@itu.int. Use of the App is limited only to the Event participants. ITU shall destroy all Participant Data contained in the App database once a new version of the App is launched, and at the latest eight months following the end of the Event. A participant may ask to be removed from the App following the end of the Event by sending an email to privacy.telecom@itu.int. Full details on how to make the most of the App’s networking features can be found online at <https://telecomworld.itu.int/2018-event/networking/> or in the App itself under “How to Network”. ITU is committed to protecting the security and confidentiality of Participant Data and, to this end, has implemented appropriate technical measures to safeguard Participant Data from unauthorized access and use.

MODIFICATION TO THESE TERMS AND CONDITIONS

34. These terms and conditions may be revised and updated from time to time in ITU’s sole discretion, with immediate effect upon e-mail notice to Event participants.

SETTLEMENT OF DISPUTES

35. Any dispute between an Event participant and ITU arising from, or in connection with, these terms and conditions shall be settled directly and amicably by them through mutual negotiations. In the case of failure of such negotiations, the dispute shall be settled by a sole arbitrator to be nominated at the request of either of the parties by the Court of Arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce (ICC). The place of arbitration shall be Geneva. The language of arbitration shall be English. The arbitration shall be carried out in accordance with the Rules of Arbitration of the International Chamber of Commerce, as at present in force. The applicable substantive law shall be Swiss law. The arbitrator’s ruling shall be binding and final upon the parties and any recourse against this ruling to any court or tribunal shall be excluded.

PRIVILEGES AND IMMUNITIES

36. Nothing contained herein or relating hereto shall be construed as a waiver, whether express or implied, of any of the privileges, immunities or facilities which ITU or any of its officials enjoys by virtue of the international agreements and national laws applicable to ITU. ITU hereby expressly reserves all such privileges, immunities and facilities.
